Introduction

INTRODUCTION
Last update: October 2026

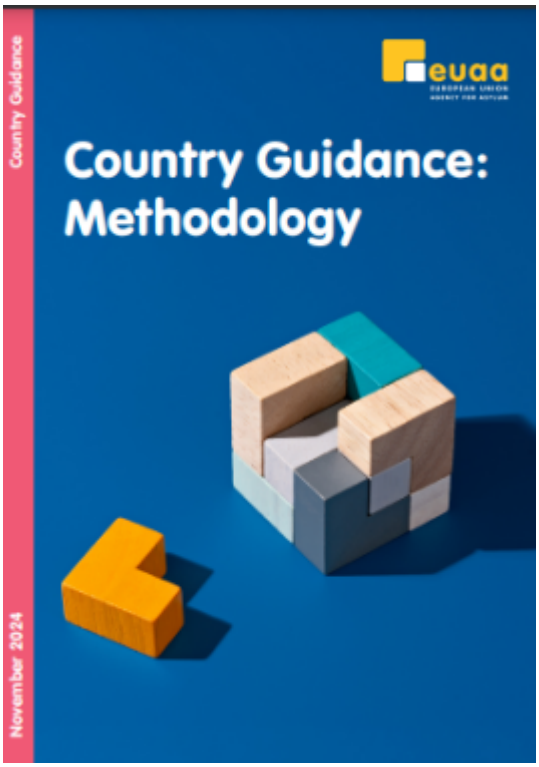

The country guidance documents provide country-specific common analysis and guidance in relation to the assessment criteria established in the Qualification Regulation (QR) (1), which repealed the recast Qualification Directive (QD) (2) with its entry into application on 12 June 2026. They are developed by the EUAA together with a network of senior-level policy officials from EU+ countries and represent their joint assessment of the situation in main countries of origin, in accordance with current EU legislation and jurisprudence of the Court of Justice of the European Union (CJEU). The European Commission and the United Nations High Commissioner for Refugees (UNHCR) also provide valuable input in this process.

The aim of the country guidance documents is to assist decision-makers and policy-makers in their daily work and to foster convergence in the assessment of applications for international protection and the type of protection granted in the context of the Common European Asylum System.

The development, review and update of country guidance is regulated under Article 11 of the EUAA Regulation (3).

In accordance with Article 11(3) EUAA Regulation, Member States have the obligation to take into account the common analysis and guidance notes when examining applications for international protection, without prejudice to their competence to decide on individual applications.

For more details on the process of producing country guidance documents and the exact role of stakeholders involved, see ‘Country Guidance: Methodology’ (November 2024).

This document encompasses the development, review and update of country guidance and regulates the work of the EUAA Country Guidance Network and all related processes.

This common analysis is mainly based on country of origin information (COI) covering the period November 2024 – April 2026. Some additional information on major political, human rights and security developments covering the period April – July 2026 has also been reflected. Each section of the country guidance documents also clearly states the timing of its last update.

The analysis and guidance within this document should be considered valid as long as current events and developments in the country fall within the trends and patterns described within the COI on which the assessment at hand is based on.

The analysis and guidance provided within this document are not exhaustive.

Common analysis, guidance note and methodological approach

The country guidance document consists of two components: the guidance note and the common analysis. These two parts focus on the situation in the country of origin and provide analysis and guidance on the assessment of relevant international protection needs.

The Country Guidance documents should be read in conjunction with the separate document ‘ EUAA, Country Guidance: explained, February 2026’.

This document outlines the general guidance relied upon in this analysis, as well as the methodological framework, approach and indicators used to assess the different elements of qualification for international protection.

Scope of this development

This development focuses on the international protection needs of the profiles of applicants for international protection most frequently encountered in the caseload of EU+ countries. It covers the situation of individuals perceived by the Pakistani authorities as criticising them; education personnel and individuals involved in polio vaccination campaigns; ethnic and religious minorities; individuals considered as blasphemers, apostates, atheists, converts, and individuals (perceived as) transgressing other Islamic norms such as those involved in interfaith marriages; women and girls; children and persons with diverse SOGIESC. Additionally, this development covers the international protection needs of Pakistani applicants under the meaning of Article 15 QR, as well as the potential availability of an internal protection alternative. The main actors in Pakistan are covered by the sections on actors of persecution or serious harm and actors of protection. Finally, the present development also addresses general exclusion considerations to be taken into account when assessing the international protection needs of Pakistani applicants.

This development is mainly based on the following EUAA COI products:
